

Tickets to the inaugural Day/Night Cricket Test in New Zealand

From the very first Day/Night test between the BLACKCAPS and Australia in 2015, tests played with the pink ball have proved to be extremely popular.

The inaugural New Zealand Day/Night Cricket test here from 22 March is likely to be the same. An England team chastened by Australia will look forward to playing in conditions more suited to their frontline bowlers, while the BLACKCAPS will want to stamp their authority in the whites during their limited opportunities this home summer.

For this game, we're offering members of The Hood four tickets each. Just pick which day you want to go! This way more members of The Hood get to experience this historic event. We will be at Gate G reception from 7:00 am this Wednesday 7 March for you to come collect your tickets.
