Dulux Super Bash

The inaugural Dulux Super Bash kicks off this weekend at Eden Park, providing weekend warriors and dreamers the chance to experience what it's like to play on an international wicket to its fullest extent – minus the life-endangering chin music.

Each participant will face six balls from a bowling machine at around 90kph, with the only score that matters being a six, down the ground. Proper technique only! Following that participants will get the opportunity to take three high catches on the boundary to feel the pressure of the Eden Park cauldron.

In partnership with Electric Kiwi, the first 10 players each day who hit a six into the Electric Kiwi Power Zone (think where Kane Williamson hit the winning runs in 2015 against Australia) will receive $250. If the participant has decided to nominate a fielder to stand in the zone and that fielder successfully catches the six, that prize will be doubled to $500.

As part of The Hood, Eden Park is pleased to offer a very special price of $36 per ticket on selected times this Sunday, 30 January. To book, visit Ticketek's site and use the promo code THEHOOD36.

Please note: all participants must bring their own protective equipment, including gloves, pads, helmets and boxes.
